STRICT ON THE RAILWAYS

Industrial Commission Submits Final Report.

Would Give Largely Increased Power vors Government Control Policy.

Washington, Feb. 7.-The industrial commission has submitted its final re- shall be permitted to attend. port to congress. It is a document first part deals with the progress of tion and agriculture. The commission advises as to transportation:

That the policy of government supervision and control of railroads as Meteor. originally laid down in the senate committee report of 1886 and embodied the following year, in the interstate commerce act, be revised and strengthened.

Such legislation should provide More stringent regulation of the conditions under which freight and passenger tariffs are published and filed. changed without at least 60 days' notice to shippers, unless specifically authorized by the interstate commerce commission. That strict adherence to published tariffs be required and that rebates and discrimination be prewented by an increase of the penalties.

For a specific grant of power to the Interstate commerce commissión over classification, both as to items and grouping. For the establishment of a permanent corps of expert auditors who shall have authority under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission, to examine periodfeally the accounts of all railroad companies, whether operating or financial, in their nature.

It makes the following recommendations: That the secretary of agriculture be given authority to inspect dairy products intended for export and to certify their grade and quality; to fix standard grades for cereals, based on season of growing quality and weight per measure and when intended for export to inspect and certify the same; to cause stock cars and stockyards to be cleansed and disinfected whenever he considers such action necessary; to make adequate regulations prohibiting the shipment one state to another or to foreign

"NAPOLEON OF CRIME" DEAD. Story of Stealing of Gainsborough

Painting is at Last Told. Chicago, Feb. 7 .- Adam Worth. the details of the recovery of the celebrated Gainsborough painting were made public in Chicago. When the famous picture was restored to its owner in Chicago last April there were many surmises as to the medium of its return. William A. Pinkerton, who made the formal announcement of the recovery of the painting, re-Gainsborough secret after he had died. Wrapped in oilcloth, the canvas was handed over to C. Moreland Agnew one morning last April in Chicago by Worth, who 25 years before had cut the painting from its frame in the Agnew galleries in London. The return of the painting took place in Mr. Pinkerton's private office. The owner

CAUGHT IN GOULD NET.

Indiana Investors Lose Upwards of Sixty Thousand Dollars.

Michigan City, Ind., Feb. 7.-Amos R. Gould, a former Michigan City resident, who is under arrest at David with the wreck of the Platte Valley bank of Bellwood, has succeeded, it is said, in obtaining over $60,000 of Michigan City money for investment. An estate here had $4,000 in stock in Gould's private bank and under the Nebraska state banking laws stockholders are liable for double the face value of their stock, so that the ostate probably will have to pay $4,000 as well as lose the entire stock. Other people here have from $25,000 to $40,000 of mortgages and paper, so that the loss to Michigan City residents will equal, if not exceed, the total of $60,000.

Fishing For Ducks.

In India an ingenious scheme is practiced for taking ducks on a line, which is attached at one end to a flexible stick stuck up in the mud, the other extremity having a double pointed needle of bone attached to it. The latter is baited by stringing upon it some grains of corn. Presently along comes Mr. Duck, swallows the needle and finds himself a captive the moment he tries to fly away. In olden times the Cape Cod fishermen depended largely for balt upon the seafowl they took on their voyages. To catch them they threw out fishing lines with hooks on the end, to which were attached chunks of cod City, Neb., for forgery in connection liver. The latter floated because of the oil they contained, and murres, gulls and other birds swallowing them were quickly pulled in, skinned and chopped

In the old days a peacock was perhaps the most gorgeous and decorative dish on the Christmas board. This was prepared by first carefully removing the skin without losing the feathers. The fowl was then dressed, stuffed with all kinds of good things, roasted and finally sewed into its skin, still retaining the brilliant plumage. The beak was gilded, and this dish, fit for a king, was placed upon the table amid the blare of trumpets and the rapturous applause of the revelers.

There is a certain disease that has come down to us through many cen-turies and is older than history itself,

yet very few outside of those who have learned from bitter experience know anything of its nature or characteristics. At first a little ulcer or sore appears, then glands of the neck or groins swell; pimples break out on the breast, back or some other part of the body and fill with yellow pustular matter; the mouth and throat become sore and the tongue is at all times badly coated. Headaches are frequent, and muscles and joints throb and hurt, especially during damp, rainy weather. These are some of the symptoms of that most loathsome of all diseases, Contagious Blood Poison.
